

Citizenship Study Guide

Quiz on Friday, Sept. 7th

Characteristics of a good citizen:

- Respects the rights of people and their property
- Takes part in the voting process (in school and in the community)
- Helps improve the classroom, school, and community
- Uses self-discipline (managing own behavior) and self-reliance (doing things for yourself)
- Practices being honest and trustworthy

Diversity is the difference among people, such as age, religion, and race

The United States is made up of many different people who have different traditions. People of Virginia have diverse communities and they contribute to their community.

Even though people are different, we are all united as Americans because we follow the same rules and laws. People contribute to their community by being a good citizen.

The people of Virginia have local and state officials that are elected by voters.

