

Magnets Review

Study Guide

Quiz on _____

1. Magnets have a north and south pole.
2. Attract means to pull together and repel means to push apart.
3. Unlike magnetic poles attract, and like poles repel. In other words, opposite ends attract.

Attract:

N

S

N

S

Repel:

N

S

S

N

4. Magnets can attract objects made of iron or steel.
5. A compass uses magnetic forces and will always point north because it aligns with the Earth's magnetic field.
6. There are man-made magnets in many shapes and sizes.
7. There are naturally occurring magnets in our Earth called lodestone or magnetite.
8. Magnets are used in everyday life - door latches, doorbells, telephone, and computers are just some of the daily uses of magnets. Why are magnets important in everyday life? Are there any objects magnets should never go near?