Formed Families Forward present

“Just So You Know...” Strategies for Nontraditional Families to Share Their Information with Schools

Presented by Dr. Kelly Henderson of Formed Families Forward, a non-profit parent resource center serving northern Virginia families formed through foster care, adoption, and kinship connections. Formed Families Forward supports families raising children and youth with disabilities and other needs through direct consultation and training.

In this interactive workshop, participants will learn strategies for communicating about the unique characteristics and needs of their family to school and agency personnel. We will review what research has shown about effective sharing of sensitive information with schools and why and how you can do so. There will be opportunities for practicing an “elevator speech” and making an About our Family handout to share with professionals.
