The Virginia Summer Residential Governor's Schools are approximately four weeks long and are held each summer on various college and university campuses throughout Virginia. The Governor's Schools offer students a unique opportunity to work and study not only with other students with similar talents and interests but also with mentors, professors, scientists, and other professionals in their field of interest.

LCPS students must apply through their home high schools. Students may apply to only one Governor's School. School divisions select the students they nominate for the state level application process.
