

☺☺☺ Mrs Urban's unsolicited advice for math improvement and/or extra help opportunities available at BRHS ☺☺☺

Tips:

- Attendance - am I in class as much as possible?
- Homework - am I doing quality effort on my homework?
 - When am I starting my homework? With the block schedule it is suggested that you start it the night we have class and finish it the next night - this way you will know whether or not you are going to need to seek help on the "off" day
- Seek help early. If you know you are having trouble do not wait until class to ask questions - yes, we will go over the homework but we are also moving on into new material

Extra help opportunities:

- 8:15 am Mrs Urban is available in T-8 Please give me a heads up the day before so I can let you know for sure that I will be there. Sometimes morning meetings come up and I'd hate for you to get a ride and then me not be available.
- Mrs Urban T-8 after school - I can be available until 4:30pm but not until after Thanksgiving break due to coaching responsibilities.
- Studyhall - check outside of the cafeteria/auditorium - there may be a math honor society student available to help.
- Tuesday/Wednesday after school NHS tutoring in the library - there is a late bus at 5pm - the NHS students stay to peer tutor
- NHS tutor request - see the NHS link under ACTIVITIES on the BR webpage. You can fill in the form to request a peer tutor.
- Math teachers available during ALL lunch periods. This is held in Mr. McLean's classroom 103.

My best piece of advice is... there are lots of resources available... seek them out and get yourself back on track - you may just need a boost now and then you may not need it later... OR you may find that it really helps to have a little bit of extra help and you may enjoy having the help and want to continue... take advantage of the help being offered!!! We all want YOU to be successful. Everyone's success is a little different - how can I/WE help YOU???? ☺ Being in class is half the battle, then using that time and the resources available is the next step to being successful.
