“Injustice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere.” Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

Fourth Quarter Overview: English 9 Academic

Unit Plan: Is Justice Blind?

Essential Questions: What is justice? Does justice apply equally to the rich and the poor? To the white and non-white? To the socially prominent and the social outcast? To the male and the female? To the adult and the child?

I. Literature
   A. To Kill a Mockingbird by Harper Lee
   B. 12 Angry Men by Reginald Rose
   C. “Caged Bird” by Maya Angelou
   D. “Sympathy” by Paul Laurence Dunbar
   E. “The Scottsboro Boys: Injustice in Alabama” by Jay Bellamy

II. Writing
   A. Creative
   B. Reflective
   C. Argumentative
   D. Research-Based

“In matters of truth and justice, there is no difference between large and small problems, for issues concerning the treatment of people are all the same.” Albert Einstein

III. Language
    A. Spelling
    B. Vocabulary
    C. Grammar

IV. Film
    B c³ A

V. Project
    The Big Question: Personal Anthology

Disclaimer: While I have attempted to cover all the major aspects in this course overview, the fluid nature of classwork, the individual needs of students, and unforeseen scheduling events may cause the material to be amended slightly. Please use this as a guideline and note that it may change at any time or extend into the next quarter in an effort to best fulfill the course objectives.

“Truth will ultimately prevail where there is pains to bring it to light.” George Washington