The economy of the Virginia colony depended on agriculture as the primary source of wealth. The colony became dependent on slave labor, and this dependence lasted a long time.

Tobacco became the most profitable agricultural product because it was sold in England as a cash crop.

The successful cultivation of tobacco depended on a steady and inexpensive source of labor.

African men, women, and children were brought to the Virginia colony and enslaved to work on plantations.

Because Virginia was agricultural, farmers could not pay for goods until their crops were harvested. This made credit important.

- Farmers and other consumers could buy goods and services on credit and pay their debts when their crops were harvested and sold.
- Colonial Virginia had no banks. Money was rarely used. Few people had paper bills or coins.
- Barter was commonly used instead of money. Tobacco was used as money. A tobacco farmer could use his tobacco to pay for goods and services.
Whenever people settle an area, they change the landscape to reflect their culture and customs.

- The culture of colonial Virginia reflected the beliefs, customs, and architecture of the Europeans, Africans, and American Indians living there.
- Although it was a colony of England, Virginia developed a unique culture different from that of England.
- Place names reflect culture, such as Richmond from the English and Roanoke from the American Indians.

Why was Virginia’s capital relocated from Jamestown to Williamsburg?

CAUSE Jamestown’s drinking water was contaminated by salt water seepage.

CAUSE Unhealthy living conditions in Jamestown caused diseases.

CAUSE Fire destroyed wooden and brick buildings in Jamestown.

CAUSE Williamsburg was an established town.

EFFECT The capital moved from Jamestown to Williamsburg.
Natural, human, and capital resources found in colonial Virginia were used to produce goods and services people needed.

Food choices were limited. Meals were made of local produce and meats.

People lived in one-room houses with dirt floors. Some wealthy people (merchants, lawyers, planters) lived in large houses.

Women made clothes for family members in their households. Most clothing was made of cotton, wool, and/or leather.

Everyday life in colonial Virginia was different for people living there.

Most white Virginians made their living from the land as small farmers.

A few white Virginians owned large farms (plantations).

Some free African Americans owned land but were denied basic rights.

Most enslaved African Americans worked tobacco, other crops, and livestock. They were denied basic rights.
